

Case Study: Time-critical consignments direct to surgery.

Pharmaceutical manufacturer CO.DON is a provider of innovative biopharmaceutical treatments for cartilage defects. GO! is responsible for transporting these highly sensitive pharmaceuticals safely and securely. Medical practices and hospitals receive these urgently needed therapy products just in time by direct delivery or overnight shipment to operating theatres without delay.

To enable patients to lead as symptom-free lives as possible, doctors are increasingly relying on regenerative treatment methods, which can often postpone the use of an artificial limb or at best completely avoid a joint replacement. CO.DON is one of the world's leading cell-culture specialists. The company develops, manufactures and markets endogenous cell therapies for the minimally invasive repair of cartilage damage to joints caused by traumatic or degenerative defects.

Reliable partnership for rapid supply of replacement parts

Ranging from orthopaedic and accident surgeons in hospitals to clinic groups – CO.DON's pharmaceuticals have been used in over 200 clinics for more than ten years. More than 15,000 patients have already benefitted from their use. CO.DON uses an innovative method called "tissue engineering", which involves the tissue required for surgery being reconstructed from the patient's own (autologous) cells. These cell therapy products for the minimally invasive treatment of cartilage defects, using the patient's own cells only, are classified as prescription-only pharmaceuticals that are approved for use throughout the EU. Every graft or transplant is custom-produced for each patient from a small piece of tissue using integrated isolator technology. Furthermore, the method does not involve interfering with the genetic structure of the tissue.

Europe-wide transportation of living cells

CO.DON AG, which is based in Teltow and Berlin, guarantees the proper transportation of these transplants to its clients. The company has relied on GO! Express & Logistics as its exclusive express service provider since 2009. Every day GO! transports these endogenous substances throughout Europe to the doctors that use this form of therapy. To maintain cell quality, every consignment is delivered within the space of a few hours in strict compliance with all regulations, e.g. consistent GDP conformity. CO.DON also uses specially developed packaging for shipping, in order to guarantee the safety and integrity of these highly sensitive implants.

Close liaison delivers trust-based working relationship

The limited useful life of the tissue requires just-in-time delivery directly to the operating theatre as well as frictionless transportation to maximum quality and safety standards. "The extremely reliable and flexible service and the excellent value for money provided by GO! are just two reasons for this long-standing, successful partnership. Another major plus for us is the online tool that GO! provides, which enables us to input our orders directly", says Matthias Meißner, Head of Corporate Communications / IR / PR at CO.DON AG. "We are delighted to have CO.DON as one of our regular clients. Continuous communication with those responsible at CO.DON enables us to pursue our shared goal of ensuring fast, reliable and pinpoint delivery of these pharmaceuticals in the future too – for the benefit of patients", emphasises Constance Höhne, station manager of GO! Potsdam GmbH.
